DROUGHT-RELATED EMERGENCY REGULATIONS FOR URBAN WATER CONSERVATION

Attn: Felicia Marcus, Chair

Hello Felicia,

A simple modification to the proposed mandate, of a 2-day restriction on outdoor irrigation, may allow for higher water conservation and less property damage. Those water users that are already metered should have an option. They can water 2-days a week and water as much as they need (certainly over watering will take place) or option 2 which would allow users to water some percentage less (10%-40%) than the historical value of the average of the last five years. Most all local water agencies have this data and can monitor and police these reductions.

Respectfully, Michael
