

commentletters

From: B Costley <bbcostley@earthlink.net>
Sent: Saturday, January 16, 2016 11:57 AM
To: commentletters
Subject: Revised Water Plan

I realize there is a real water shortages but feel strongly that penalties for water wasters/abusers should be not only fairly enforced but fines should be meaningful to the abusers.

A case in point is the recent news article concerning a large home in Beverly Hills that used more water than 90 “regular” sized homes. This gross violation means this owner is so rich that they can just pay for all the water they use, at any cost, or they can just buy off the local officials.

The water wasting fines should be based on the abusers income or net worth.