Hi Roger,

I presume you are moving ahead toward recommending the $11 million fine on the CSD that will get their attention if that becomes necessary. I hope all that can happen so that it ultimately does not hurt the property owners in Los Osos who I think were largely in favor of continuing the project. The problem was mostly the renters who think the sewer automatically means a rent hike. I don't like to see it, but if it come to that, the Water Board has to prove it is not a paper tiger.

If there is anything I can do to help, let me know. I don't like to just send letters around unless there is some point to it. However, they have erected this farce of Measure B to try to ward off fines. I presume everyone down at your place sees through that one.

Hang in there.

Don
