

Confined Animal Facilities

Who We Are

The Confined Animal Facilities (CAF) Unit at the Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board is responsible for regulating potential pollutants generated by animal facilities (dairies, feedlots, horse facilities, and poultry facilities) in parts of Riverside, San Bernardino, and Orange counties (Santa Ana Region).

What We Do

The CAF Unit regulates manure, wastewater and stormwater pollution from confined animal facilities that can affect surface and ground water quality, and the environment. We issue permits to facility operators required to take certain actions to reduce or eliminate pollution.

Current Project

We are developing a new Confined Animal Facilities permit. Once adopted, new and existing animal facilities may be required to comply with its requirements.
