

Dear Jeanine Townsend, Clerk to the Board-

There are 2 main issues I would like to address in regards to the groundwater protect program:

1. The processes of fracking completely destroys ground water quality.

We know that oil is toxic. We know that cancer is caused by toxins. We know that we need clean water to survive. We know we need clean food to survive.

These issues are very black and white to me. Water quality so important because it is the most important substance on the planet and because every living things needs it to survive.

We know fracking uses chemical. Chemicals that are injected into our earth with shattering force. We know that these chemicals are toxic to our water tables.

Please Please Please stop the fracking process now. There is enough oil being drilled right now, fracking is not necessary. Plus there are a tremendous amount of alternative solutions ready to go. Lancaster has a microgrid.

'the Congress of 2005 exempted fracking fluids from federal regulation, thus leaving it up to the states to regulate fracking contamination of groundwater. Now California's oil regulators are investigating all 50,000 injection wells in California, and they suspect approximately 2,500 injection wells may be operating in violation of the SDWA.' - fandecande

Please recognize that fracking fluids should not be exempt from federal regulation and this is just one of the many ways money is beating ideas. Please make sure that fracking fluids can not enter the ground anywhere in California.

2. Large corporations should not be allowed to bottle any water in California with this kind of drought.

Please contact me at The World Business Academy in Santa Barbara. We have so much information to share about solutions and how to keep our water clean. I would love to be a involved in this ongoing conversation to take care of our water so that we all can live on this planet in a healthy and sustainable way.

Thank you for your time and consideration, please do what is right for your children and their children and their children....

Sincerely,

Kara Block

How large corporations like Crystal Geyser, Coca-Cola, Nestle etc are pulling water out of the ground to bottle and sell, when California is on the biggest drought yet.
