

Dear Water Board,

I live in Stanislaus county and have most of my life. My livelihood has always come from agriculture and food production. Your proposal to restrict water will devastate that commerce and increase my cost of living directly. With drought conditions already present and sure to return in years to come, this proposal will eliminate water and electricity resources that ensure affordable rates to those who work and live in the San Joaquin valley. What do you propose we do in the circumstances that will result? Will I loose my job? Will I be able to afford to live in my house on my property? What will happen to my neighbors?

I have observed this area grow over the course of my 52 years with the construction of the Don Pedro dam and the expansion of the resources it has provided. To radically curtail those resources would begin a domino effect that would remove the very commerce that supports your existence.

I strongly encourage you to reconsider your priorities and take seriously the people you are charged to serve.
