

I have lived in the Carmel Valley for 20 years, all of them under the threat of water rationing because a few fishermen want to preserve a non-endangered fish so they can have fun catching them. I believe it is high time to take a stand and say enough is enough. I believe people and their property investments outweigh those few fishermen. Therefore, I would urge the Board to concentrate on demanding that new water sources be established before any further restrictions are imposed on Cal-Am and tell those fishermen to look elsewhere for fulfillment of their sport.
