Subject: Save lake Almanor

I am opposed to the Water Board staff recommendation in the draft EIR. In a time when there is great uncertainty regarding our changing climate, why would it make any sense to cause an increase to Lake Almanor's temperature? That would cause significant changes to the lake impacting all forms of life in and around the lake. I haven't seen any proof that the small amount of cold water the thermal curtain will provide downstream will be of any benefit long term, especially if it ruins the lake. There needs to be some accountability to all that will be impacted by this poorly thought out plan.
