Mr. Barnes,

I object to the idea of altering the Lake Almanor water quality. Lake Almanor attracts visitors who support local economies and families and I join countless other local property owners who fail to see the value in damaging Lake Almanor for questionable benefit downstream. Destroy one to establish another and at what cost? Climate change impact on the region is already significant. Do no further harm.

I urge you to reject consideration of any action that might in any way be attributed to a negative impact upon the environmental quality of Lake Almanor. Damaging the lake in any way is not acceptable to property owners who have invested significantly in the area. Our family loves Lake Almanor and the beautiful setting of Lassen National Park. What wisdom is there in tinkering with that?
